E-Commerce

While doing business over the Internet is now considered commonplace, there are still many risks and challenges associated with electronic transactions and payments. Aird & Berlis LLP’s experienced E-commerce team helps enterprise clients drive profitability online while protecting their assets.

Our legal advisors, many of whom are recognized as global leaders, have extensive knowledge of Canadian and international statutes and standards that govern e-commerce activities.

By combining our expertise in technology, intellectual property, tax, privacy and commercial transactions, we provide clients with comprehensive solutions and guidance to assist you with your Internet-based business needs:

- e-commerce agreements and documents
- policies and terms of use
- electronic contracts
- hosting agreements
- privacy compliance
- data management and protection
- mobile computing
- consumer rights
- taxation
- intellectual property
- security and cyber risk management
